The poster is for a creative writing competition titled 'The Superhero From Cork'. It features a purple background with white and orange polka dots and splatters. At the top left is the Cork County Council logo. In the center, the title is written in a handwritten style. Below the title, the words 'CREATIVE WRITING COMPETITION!' are in large, bold, orange letters. To the right of the title are two markers, one blue and one red. Below the title, there is a list of details about the competition, including the target audience (4th, 5th, and 6th class students), the challenge (writing a short story about a superhero), the prize (winning story featured on RED FM and in the Evening Echo), and the rules (maximum length 500 words, inspired by 'The Superhero From Cork', submit via email to schools.library@corkcoco.ie, and include name, class, school, and teacher's name). The closing date is Monday 25th May. At the bottom, there are two cartoon superheroes, a girl in a pink suit and a boy in a red suit, standing on either side of a typewriter. The typewriter is orange and white. Above the typewriter are several stars and a wavy line. At the bottom left are the Twitter and Facebook logos. At the bottom center is the website address www.corkcoco.ie/library-services. At the bottom right is the phone number 021-4546499.
